Mirs. A. J. S. Fish May Not be Able to Attend Court this Morning-In Fish Appeal from Probate Many Witnesses Indicate a Long Trial-Judge Directed Verdict in Suit Against United Workmen.

the matter which occupied the attention of the superior court here Wednesday after the suit of Fetherson vs. the Grand Lodge. A. O. U. W., of Massachusetts and Connecticut, was finished, the judge having directed the jury to bring in a verdict for the defendant, which they did.

The witnesses and attorneys were on hand for the immediate start in the matter of the appeal and a jury was selected. The case promises to be a long one, the court room being filled with the many witnesses, there being a number of women and several clersymen in attendance.

This is an appeal of W. S. and S. Warren Fish of Groton and five others from the probating of the will of Hannah E. Grunley, late of Groton. The first two are brothers of the deceased and the others grandehildren. By the will, which is dated November 5, 1905, Mrs. H. A. Sherman is named as executiva and qualified on May 18, 1909, after Mrs. Grunley's death. By the will her busband is given the use of all her catate, amounting to $11,000, and a house. It is claimed that Mrs. Grunley's death. By the will her busband is given the use of all her catate, amounting to $11,000, and a house. It is alleged in the appeal that the will was not subscribed by the deceased and was not attested by there witnesses and not executed according to law, it is claimed that Mrs. Grunley's death. By the will her busband is given the use of all her catate, amounting to $11,000, and a house. It is alleged in the appeal that the will was not subscribed by the deceased and was not attested by there witnesses and not executed according to law, it is claimed that Mrs. Grunley was resumed in regard to the motion of directing the verdict in the case of Petherson vs. the Grand Lodges, A. O. U. W., in which he represented the penning of court Wednesday and other attorneys were heard. The motion was granted by Judge Reed at the penning of court Wednesday and other catate, and the was subject to the influence of others.

Five witnesses were called during the day, although the last did not complete her four lawyers and much of interest in the case.

The first witness called was Judge A. P. Anderson of the Groton probate district, who testified to admitting the will to probate. John S. Edgcomb and Frank Smith were called and testified that they testified to seeing Mrs. Grumley sign the will. They considered her of sound mind. Clyde J. Batty was examined and the last witness for the day was Mrs. Amanda J. Smith Fish. She had helped care for Mrs. Grumley and knew her condition. She testified that she talked dition. She testified that she talked with her before the Shermans came there and Mrs. Grumiey was undecle-ed about taking them. Mrs. Fish ad-vised her that it was "easier to keep

Witness Injured.

Directly after court Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Fish, the witness, who had just left the stand, in going down the stairs in the City hall, fell and received a number of bruises. She fell while going down the last three steps on the first flight from the second floor to the main floor, bumping her head and hurting her ankle. She is a heavy woman and received quite a shaking up. Dr. Patrick Cassidy was there and found no bones broken, but throught she might not be able to appear in court this morning. Constable G. H. Stanton with her relatives assisted her out the side door and into James Burke's hack and by hustling they caught the 4.40 train to Groton.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM OF ABANDONED FARMS.

Re-establishment of the Sheep Growing Industry Will Make Them Pay.

With sheep raising as the topic of the day it being declared that Connecticut and New England as a whole offered many opportunities for the business, the midwinter meeting of the Connecticut board of agriculture was resumed at Harmonie hall, New Haven, Wednesday, Prof. R. L. Gribben of the Massachusetts Agricultural college, C. C. Jones of Vermont and F. H. Stadtmueller of Greenfield, Mass., were the morning speakers, and all sounded an appeal for the re-extablishment of the sheep growing industry in Connecticut.

stry in Connecticut. Mr. Jones, who took the place of the Hon. Frank Garrett of Greenfield, Mass, who was unable to appear, de-clared that the problem of our many abandoned farms might best be solved

In many cases by placing sheep upon them. "New England is a natural grazing country," he declared, "and hundreds of abandoned farms on all sides may be turned into well paying sheep farms. There is no good reason for our many abandoned farms. Farming is profitable if the farmer keeps abreast with the times. The trouble is that our ancestors have sent the bright boys to the city and kept the bright boys to the city and kept the stupid, lazy ones at home. They have acted on a policy of keeping the boy on the farm who isn't good for anything else, but the boy who isn't good for anything else isn't any good as a farmer. The farm boys who have gone to the cities may have made more money, but God knows they would have prospered well and been a great deal happier if they had stuck to the country."

country."

Professor Gribben, in his address, traced the sheep raising from its infancy, showing how it was once a great industry in Connecticut and pointing out how it might be re-established.

pointing out how it might be re-established.

After a noon recess, corn raising was taken up, Prof. J. A. Ford of Amherst and Col. J. B. Walker of Hopkinsville, Ky. being the speakers.

In the evening the opportunity for alfalfa growing in Connecticut was the topic of discussion, and Colonel Walker spoke again, also Col. Charles M. Jarvis of Berlin, the evening's session concluded with an address in dalrying in Europe vs. America by Wilson H. Lee.

At Thursday morning's session prizes were awarded in the wool exhibition as follows:

Fine wool—No first prize; second, P. G. Tripp of Rockville.

MUCH RAILROAD GOSSIP AFFECTING NEW LONDON.

Big Fight in Rhode Island Legislature on Grand Trunk Southern Terminal -Tunnel for New Haven Road.

If the prediction made by a Providence correspondent of the Boston Herald come true, New London will be happier because there will be a better chance of the Grand Trunk road developing the southern terminus at New London of the Central Vermont rallway, which the Grand Trunk holds under lease. The correspondent writes:

conundrum. The Rhode Island company, having an exclusive franchise here, and owned by the New York. New Haven & Hartford, operates the Providence & Danielson cars within the city limits on a percentage basis. That it will quietly submit to legislation which will enable a rival company to buck its western freight business is not at all probable. And yet the Providence board of trade, through its executive committee, this week took action favorable to the Grand Trunk. The organizacion is looking for competition which will reduce freight charges to the manufacturers and merchants. This means turers and merchants. This means that the business interests of Providence will be lined up against professional lobbyists as soon as the general assembly is convened next month and that a big scrap is coming for sure."

around in New London that the New Haven road is to come into that city from the west by means of a tunnel, which shall begin beyond Ocean avenue and approach the Thames river bridge in a straight line, almost. Those who talk of the matter are sure that the new course has been decided upon by the railroad company and that it will not be long before steps are taken that will convince the public of the plans contemplated.

It is a fixed thing that the new bridge is to be 135 feet north of the center of the present structure. At the last session of the legislature a bill was passed, so that the railroad does not have to plank down the money when it condemns land or property before the land or roperty can be entered upon and used for railroad purposes. This leads to the belief that the railrad purposes to have property condemned and that the condemnation will be considerable. The cost for condemnation, if the tunnel is resorted to, will be very small compared with the price that would have to be paid if a surface route was followed.

Concert at Maennerchor.

The first concert of the winter and the first to be given under the new musical director of the club, Professor Keller of New Haven, was delightfully given at Maennorchor hall Sunday afternoon by a chorus of about thirty voices. The programme was heard by about 150 and all went away pleased with the singing, which reflected credit alike on the new professor and the singers. Duets by August Heinrich and John Seidel, by Adolph Heinrich and Frank Freitenbach and a solo by John Seidel were enjoyed. It is hoped that other concerts may be given later.

"A battle royal may be expected at the January session of the legislature. The bone of contention will be a bill permitting the Grand Trunk railroad of Canada to enter this state and have a teminus in this city. The effort was made last year to revive the charter of the Western Rhode Island Railroad company. This was in the interest of the Grand Trunk, but the bill was not pemitted to come out of the committee room. The rain of Tuesday made a slight addition to the water in the Taftville reservoir, which is now at a very low point, so low that several families on the upper part of the hill are unable to obtain any reservoir water and in other houses the pressure is not enough to give a good supply. The people have been advised not to drink the water. At the reservoir a large part of the basin, which is ordinarily covered with water, is now exposed, and the level of the water is fully six feet below the uppermost supply pipe in the middle of the dam.
